BRAND GUIDELINES

VISUAL & VERBAL IDENTITY · V1.0 · 2026

A clinical touch for digital work.

Scout Content Studio builds websites, applications, and marketing for behavioral health practices — led by a practicing therapist who also writes the code.

Who we are. A small studio that builds, writes, and ships digital work for therapists and behavioral health practices. The work is grounded in real clinical understanding, not generic marketing playbooks.

Who we serve. Individual therapists, practice owners, group practices, and behavioral health organizations who need useful infrastructure — clearer websites, calmer intake, accurate search presence — not louder marketing.

What we stand for. Clarity over hype. Privacy and trust over pressure. A clear next step over a hard sell. The brand should feel like a calm, capable practitioner — quietly confident and genuinely helpful.

One word. Grounded.

The three pillars below run through every page of this document: the visual identity (logo, color, type, imagery) and the verbal identity (voice and tone) should always work together to make a practice feel understood.

The wordmark

The identity is a high-contrast serif wordmark — SCOUT — set in Playfair Display, paired with a hairline rule and the descriptor CONTENT STUDIO in wide-tracked Jost. The serif carries warmth and editorial credibility; the spaced sans descriptor keeps it modern and calm.

The production white logo file ships as images/Scout Logo white.png for dark backgrounds. Reproduce the navy version for light surfaces. A single-color (all navy or all ivory) version must always be available for print, embossing, and watermarks.

Clear space & minimum size

Keep clear space around the lockup equal to the cap-height of the “S” on all sides. Never crowd it with text, rules, or imagery. Minimum legible width: 120px for the full lockup on screen. Below that, drop the descriptor and use the “S” monogram.

App icon & favicon

At small sizes, use the standalone S monogram in a navy rounded-square. It must stay recognizable at 32px.

DO

- + Give the lockup room to breathe

DON'T

- ✗ Recolor the wordmark in sage or other hues

+ Use ivory-on-navy or navy-on-ivory only

+ Keep the descriptor tracking wide and even

+ Scale the whole lockup proportionally

✗ Stretch, skew, or condense the letterforms

✗ Add drop shadows, gradients, or outlines

✗ Place on busy imagery without a navy scrim

Palette

A restrained, natural palette: deep navy for authority and calm, warm ivory for breathing room, and a soft sage as the single living accent. Used sparingly, sage signals action; navy and ivory do the heavy lifting.

NAVY RAMP (50 → 900)

SAGE RAMP (50 → 900)

Usage ratio

Roughly 60% ivory · 30% navy · 10% sage. Ivory is the default canvas, navy anchors headers/footers and type, sage appears only on primary buttons, links-on-hover, and small confirmations. Never flood a layout with sage.

Type system

Three open-source typefaces, each with a clear job. A high-contrast serif for presence, a soft serif for warmth, and a geometric sans for clarity in body and interface.

DISPLAY — PLAYFAIR DISPLAY · 400 / 500 / ITALIC

Real problems, practical solutions.

Headlines, the logo wordmark, page titles. Use the italic for the emotional second line. Generous size, tight leading.

ACCENT — CORMORANT GARAMOND · 300 / 400

Built by a therapist, for therapists — a calm, occupational-therapy-informed approach to digital work.

Lead paragraphs, pull quotes, captions that need editorial warmth. Never for UI labels.

BODY & UI — JOST · 300 / 400 / 500 / 600

Scout builds websites, applications, marketing copy, AI-supported workflows, SEO, and AI-search content for practices that need useful infrastructure, not louder marketing.

How Scout speaks

Plain, warm, and unhurried — the way a good clinician explains something. Confident without pressure. Specific without jargon. The reader should feel understood and given a clear next step.

REASSURING

Lead with the problem, not the pitch. “Start with the problem in front of you.” Meet people where they’re stuck before describing services.

No hype, no pressure. “Useful infrastructure, not louder marketing.” Avoid urgency, superlatives, and manipulative CTAs.

Protect trust and privacy. Name boundaries plainly — e.g. “Please do not send client names, diagnoses, or protected health information.”

Short sentences, clear next step. Always leave the reader knowing exactly what happens next.

REASSURANCE

You don't need a finished scope before you reach out.

Imagery & texture

Soft, abstract, atmospheric. Think watercolor oceans and light — quiet movement in muted blues and warm golds, never literal stock photos of therapy or people in distress. Imagery sets a calm, spacious mood; it should recede behind the type, not compete with it.

DO

- + Use soft, abstract watercolor / light textures
- + Keep tones muted: hazy blue, sage, warm gold
- + Leave generous negative space
- + Add a navy scrim when type sits over imagery

DON'T

- ✗ Use clichéd therapy or sad-person stock photos
- ✗ Use saturated, high-energy, or busy images
- ✗ Show identifiable clients or clinical detail
- ✗ Let imagery overpower the headline

Built to be usable

Calm design is also accessible design. These standards are part of the brand, not an afterthought.

PAIRING	USE	CONTRAST	WCAG AA
Navy #2E3842 on Ivory #F4F1EA	Body text	$\approx 9.6 : 1$	Pass
Ivory #F4F1EA on Navy #2E3842	Reversed text	$\approx 9.6 : 1$	Pass

Navy on Sage #9AAC9C	Button label (preferred)	$\approx 4.8 : 1$	Pass

STANDARDS

- + Body text ≥ 16 px web · ≥ 14 px mobile · captions ≥ 12 px
- + Tap targets $\geq 44 \times 44$ px (iOS) / 48dp (Android)
- + Form inputs ≥ 16 px to prevent iOS auto-zoom
- + Provide prefers-reduced-motion fallbacks

NOTES

- + Sage buttons use navy labels, not ivory
- + Never rely on color alone to convey meaning
- + Playfair & Cormorant for display only — Jost for UI
- + Icons must read clearly at 24px
